FOR THE SYRIA CRISIS

UNITED NATIONS POPULATION FUND
REGIONAL SYRIA RESPONSE HUB

The Regional Situation Report for the Syria Crisis offers a bird's eye view of UNFPA's operations within the context of the Syria Crisis. The report is prepared by the UNFPA Regional Syria Response Hub in Amman, Jordan, and spans operations conducted by UNFPA offices in Syria, Jordan, Lebanon, Turkey, Iraq, and Egypt, in addition to operations conducted inside Syria and managed from cross-border Turkey.

In addition to providing aggregated quantitative results for each country, the report also brings stories from the field that highlight the plight of communities inside Syria and in host countries, in addition to underscoring the positive impact of the response services provided by UNFPA in the areas of sexual and reproductive health, gender-based violence, youth, and others.

THE MISSION OF UNFPA

The United Nations sexual and reproductive health and rights agency.

UNFPA's core mission is to deliver a world where every pregnancy is wanted, every childbirth is safe and every young person's potential is fulfilled.

UNFPA calls for the realization of sexual and reproductive rights for all, and supports access to a wide range of services, including voluntary family planning, maternal healthcare and comprehensive education on sexuality.

As the Syria crisis enters its ninth year, UNFPA believes that every Syrian woman and girl has the right to have access to affordable sexual and reproductive healthcare and be effectively protected from gender-based violence. UNFPA and its partners are scaling up efforts to empower and improve the lives of Syrian women and youth and impacted communities inside Syria and in host countries, including by advocating for human rights and gender equality, to better cope with and recover from the far-reaching ramifications of the crisis.

The crisis in Syria has been globally recognized as one of the worst humanitarian crises of our time. As of 2019, more than 11.7 million people inside Syria are in need, while close to 5.6 million have taken refuge in neighbouring countries throughout the region. They continue to suffer the effects of nearly a decade of conflict, including disruption of community networks, safety nets and rule of law. Even as some parts of Syria stabilize, the crisis has long since passed a critical point in terms of generational change, and its effects will undoubtedly continue for many years to come. This is particularly true in the case of women and girls due to the deep-rooted complexity of the issues they continue to face on a daily basis.

THE SYRIA CRISIS IN 2020

OVERVIEW OF THE SITUATION

Daraa, Al-Hassakah, Deir-ez-zor, Lattakia, Hama, Aleppo and Idlib governorates remain primary hotspots.

The situation in Syria remains generally volatile, with violent tensions still impacting various parts of the country, particularly in the north. In total, more than 13 million people remain in need inside Syria, while 5.6 million have taken refuge in Turkey, Lebanon, Jordan, Iraq and Egypt. Today, Syrian refugees are living in 125 countries across the world.

Ongoing tensions in the country's northern region continue to drive mass displacements. In January, humanitarian conditions in the region worsened considerably, with nearly 586,000 people displaced in Idlib following a second wave of displacements that began in late 2019. The vast majority of those displaced are women and girls, further adding to the protection risks associated with the crisis.

Access to healthcare continues to be an essential need for newly-displaced individuals and for host communities, including pregnant women. Multiple displacements and lack of access to basic services further exacerbate the needs of individuals and communities, in addition to significantly increasing the risks of gender-based violence (GBV).

Additional displacements further strain already-stretched coping mechanisms of individuals and families, leading to desperate measures that further increase the likelihood of protection threats, such as sexual exploitation, forced and early marriage, amongst others.

In response to these dire needs, UNFPA continues to provide services to people in need of sexual and reproductive health (SRH) and GBV integrated services, with a focus on the needs of women and adolescent girls. A variety of SRH services are being delivered, including antenatal care, family planning, normal delivery services, postnatal care, referrals, treatment of reproductive tract/urinary tract infection, treatment of trauma, and others. UNFPA also addresses the needs of women and adolescent girls by providing GBV response services such as case management, psycho-social support, clinical management of rape, and referrals.

RESPONSE FROM ALL OPERATIONS

Delivering life-saving sexual and reproductive health and gender-based violence services to communities in need inside Syria and throughout the region.

The conflict in Syria has created one of the most severe and protracted humanitarian crises in the world today. Millions have been displaced both inside the country and outside as refugees, especially in Egypt, Iraq, Jordan, Lebanon and Turkey. The crisis has permanently altered the fabric of society in the nation, with far-reaching ramifications for its future resilience.

Even in these circumstances, UNFPA believes that every Syrian woman, adolescent girl and child has the right to sexual and reproductive health and protection from gender-based violence.

UNFPA operations in Syria are run from the Syria Country Office, as well as from the UNFPA hub in Gaziantep, Turkey for cross-border operations.

WHOLE OF SYRIA RESPONSE

CROSS-BORDER TURKEY

Ensuring that all communities inside Syria have access to quality sexual and reproductive health and gender-based violence services.

As the humanitarian crisis inside northwest Syria reaches an all-time high, the displaced population is nearing one million persons. Women and children – who constitute 80% of the displaced – are among those who suffer the most. Massive displacement and human insecurity will continue to mark 2020.

UNFPA continues to respond to the emergency situation in northwest Syria through its cross-border operations. With a view to scale up efforts in order to improve and empower the lives of Syrian women and girls, UNFPA works towards ensuring basic human rights such as reproductive health and gender equality.

Working with five local implementing partners, UNFPA funds and supports the operation of 14 WGSSs and 24 SRH facilities, which provide life-saving support to Syrian women and girls. UNFPA's Implementing Partners continue to operate in a volatile, complex and rapidly shifting security situation. Their nimble approach in the face of regular bombardments and constant influx of newly displaced persons is testament to their resilience and their need to be supplied with adequate resources in order to continue providing life-saving services.

A coordinated approach to respond to the ongoing emergency is undertaken through the GBV Sub-Cluster and SRH Working Group, which UNFPA leads. This is done in conjunction with the Protection and Health Clusters.

From 1 December 2019 to end of January 2020, nearly 586,000 people were displaced in northwest Syria, mostly from large population centers such as Saraqab and Ma'arrat An Nu'man, as well as smaller towns and villages in other parts of southern Idlib and the western Aleppo governorate. Tens of thousands reportedly moved to areas such as Afrin, Azaz and Al-Bab in the northern Aleppo governorate under Turkish administration. The displaced constitute some of the most vulnerable people in the country, being pushed into increasingly smaller spaces. Women and children – who are 81 percent of the newly displaced people – are again among those who suffer most. An estimated 25% of displaced females are of reproductive age.

SEEING BEAUTY IN LIFE

'My husband beat me and neglected me on a regular basis. When he found out that I was pregnant with his child, he hit my stomach and forced me to take abortion pills because the baby was a girl. He then divorced me. However, I remained pregnant and gave birth to my girl. My father then forced me to give my child away to my divorced husband. I was completely broken. After a while, my father pressured me to marry another man. When I could not get pregnant, he divorced me and I moved back with my family, again.

I entered a state of isolation; I did not want to see anyone. My mother tried to help and registered me in a sewing course. When I did not have enough money to buy sewing materials, the man in the shop tried to exploit me, saying I could pay him "another way."

The Women and Girls Safe Space in Idleb came to my rescue. My caseworker, Maram, gave me psychological first Aid and a one-time cash assistance to self-sustain my small sewing business. For the first time I felt strong. Through the WGSS and the care of my caseworker, I learned how to see beauty in life again, despite the tragedy that surrounds me.'

COUNTRY OVERVIEW

EGYPT COUNTRY OFFICE

UNFPA Egypt continues to provide assistance to syrian refugees in the country, focusing on issues related to gender-based violence.

Egypt remains a destination and transit country for refugees and asylum-seekers, most of whom live in urban areas. The country continues to generously host Syrian refugees, despite the absence of a land border with Syria. Currently, there are 127,414 Syrian refugees registered with UNHCR Egypt.

Egypt constitutes a successful model with regards to the social inclusiveness dimension. The country hosts nearly half a million Syrians who live alongside Egyptians in various areas, sharing public services, resources and many of the privileges afforded to local citizens.

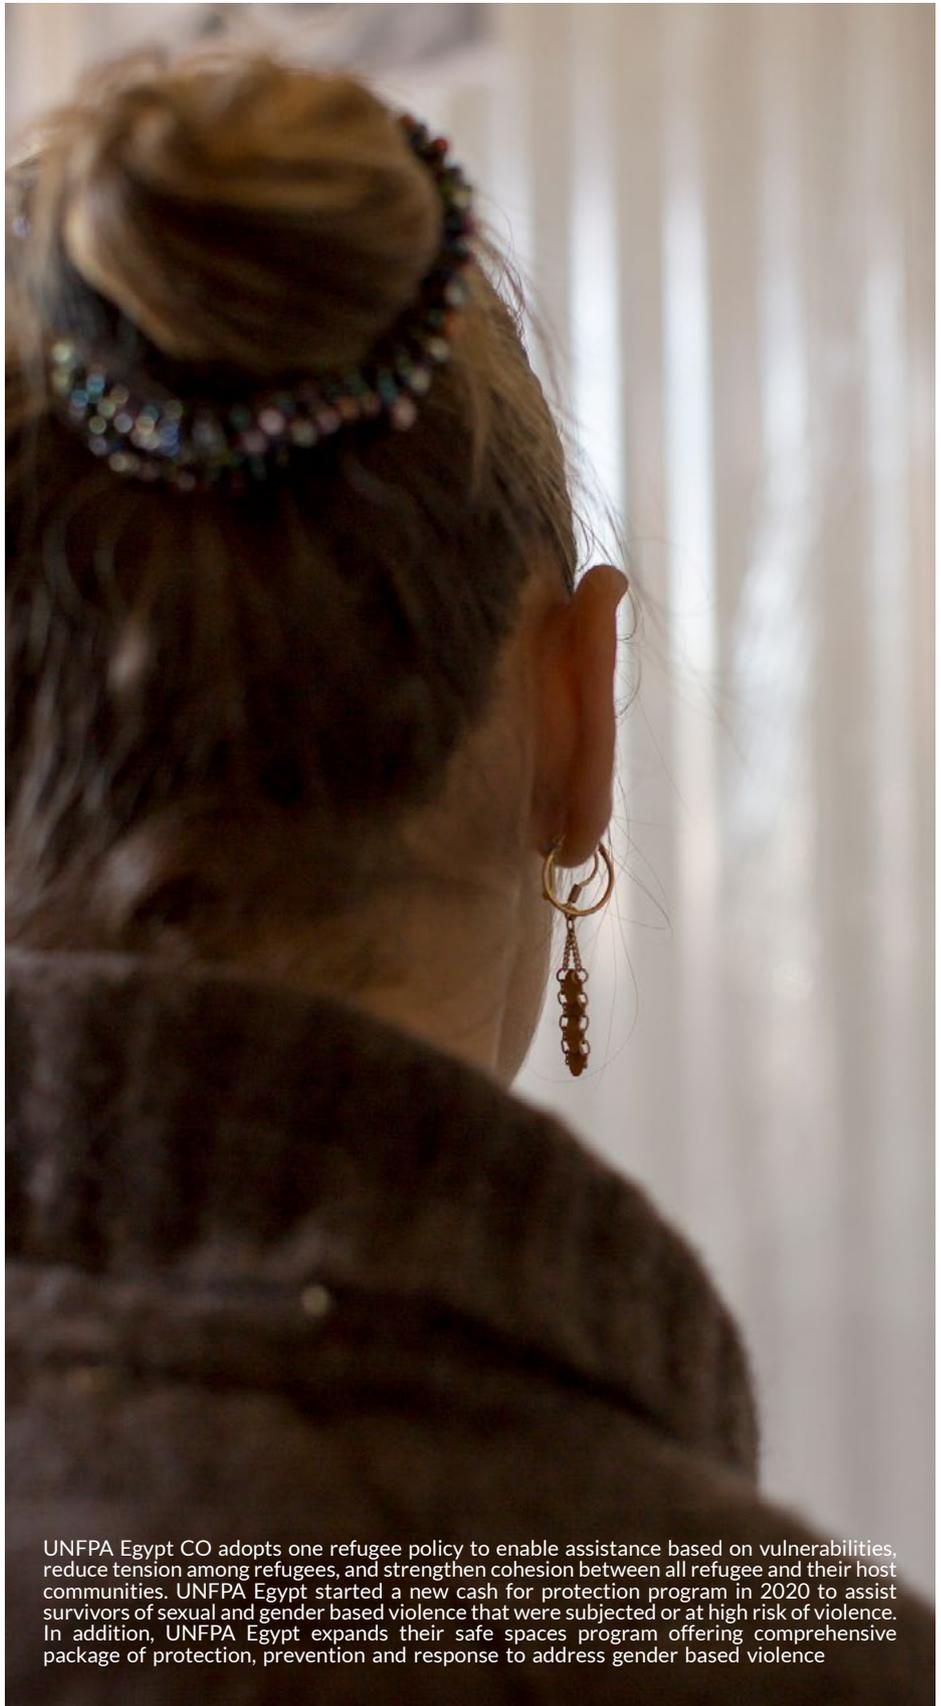

Among refugees in Egypt, women and girls, boys, adolescents, and unaccompanied and separated children face disproportionate risks. According to UNHCR, 94 percent of the Syrian population in Egypt have been identified as either highly or severely vulnerable. UNFPA Egypt continues to provide essential services to Syrians, focusing on prevailing social predicaments associated with forced migration such as various forms of gender-based violence.

UNFPA Iraq continues to provide essential support to more than 245,000 Syrians currently taking refuge in the country.

UNFPA Iraq launched its third Country Programme Document (CPD) for 2020-2024.

The CPD, which was developed in collaboration with the Government of Iraq, United Nations agencies, human rights institutions and civil society organizations, is in harmony with the country's priorities as outlined in the Iraq Poverty Reduction Strategy, the Iraq National Development Plan (2018-2022) and the Iraq Vision 2030. It also focuses on the four outcomes of the UNFPA Strategic Plan, 2018-2021, and the United Nations Sustainable Development Cooperation Framework for Iraq (2020 -2024).

Currently, UNFPA Iraq is the process of launching its programmes for 2020. As a result, no data will be reported for the month of January.

JORDAN COUNTRY OFFICE

With 1.3 million Syrians nationwide, UNFPA Jordan continues to provide essential services to refugee and host communities nationwide.

Jordan is currently hosting more than 1.3 million Syrians, including 655,000 registered refugees, who face increasing vulnerability as their savings, assets and resources are long exhausted. Providing for their needs and ensuring their access to basic sexual and reproductive health and gender-based violence services is among the top priorities of UNFPA Jordan.

According to the 2015 population census, the total population of Jordan was estimated at 9.531 million, including 1.265 million Syrians, who represent 13.2% of the overall population.

Approximately 79% of Syrian registered refugees, representing 516,000 people, live in host communities in urban and rural areas of Jordan. The remaining 21% is settled in camps, either in Azraq, Emirati Jordanian Camp, or Za'atari. The highest concentration of refugees is found in the northern governorates of Amman, Irbid, Mafraq and Zarqa.

UNFPA Jordan has been providing essential sexual and reproductive health and gender-based violence prevention services to Syrian refugees throughout the kingdom, whether in refugee camps or in host communities.

HIGHLIGHT

THE HOPEFUL CANVAS

Conflict, violence and disability collided to test Sami's resolve. Instead of despairing, he took up paint and brush and became a symbol of enduring hope.

Before the Syria crisis erupted in 2013, Sami was a happy-go-lucky 10-year-old child who idolized football more than anything. Whenever he had the chance, he was inseparable from the pitch, playing for hours on end, giving his best to become more like his favorite "El Clásico" star.

Things took an unfortunate turn a few years later. On a hot summer day in Dara'a, amid the mounting violence in the country, Sami was out to play football with his friends in front of his house, when he heard a voice screaming from afar, "hide! Hide!"

As he reached for his ball, he saw it rolling down the street and ran after it, but everything around him quickly vanished. When he opened his eyes, his world was never the same again.

Sami woke up to a different reality; while he was able to feel his legs, moving and walking were not an option; he was powerless and too weak to stand. Too many thoughts were racing in his mind, but one thought took hold of his being: "will I ever be able to walk again?"

Before long, it seemed as though the whole had changed. The neighborhood in which he grew up was leveled to the ground. The airstrike had demolished everything; his home and the houses around it, and all of his memories. Judging by the damage, Sami had very little hope that any of his friends had survived. "I lost my legs, my friends and my house," explains Sami, "but not only that – I also became a refugee. It felt like dying a slow, agonizing death."

In 2014, Sami fled to Jordan for safe refuge. At first, it was a struggle; he was in shock as he adapted to the new surroundings; a challenge that was exacerbated by his physical disability. Soon after his arrival, a few volunteers introduced him to the youth spaces supported by UNFPA, where he was able to receive individual counselling and group support. He was also enrolled in a series of life skills and art courses, including calligraphy, painting, mosaic, and crafts.

At the center, Sami took an interest in painting; his love for colors manifested in beautiful drawings filled with messages of hope. He is happiest when he is around paint bottles and brushes, so he started frequenting the center and, over time, he cultivated a wide range of friendships that have offered much-needed support during this transition.

Expressing himself through artwork restored Sami's faith in humanity; the feelings of loneliness and helplessness have long since left him. Today, he is a young and aspiring artist at 17, and his paintings are displayed in various exhibitions across Jordan. When asked about the crisis or how his life has changed since March 2011, he does not have to speak; every stroke of his brush speaks volumes.

LEBANON COUNTRY OFFICE

Despite the ongoing instabilities in Lebanon, UNFPA will continue to provide life-saving services to people in need.

Lebanon has been facing political, security, and financial instabilities, which has hindered the work of UNFPA across the country.

On January 22, following several months of protests, a new government was formed, which will allow UNFPA to begin implementing its activities.

UNFPA has received funding from the Governments of Canada, Italy, Norway, Denmark and France to reach women and girls with SRH and GBV prevention-related services, and preparations are underway. Some activities have already begun to be implemented in the month of February.

TURKEY COUNTRY OFFICE

With the largest number of refugees worldwide, turkey continues to provide much needed assistance to displaced syrians throughout the country.

Turkey hosts the largest number of refugees and asylum-seekers in the world, which includes more than 3.5 million Syrians registered with UNHCR.

Most refugees in Turkey are situated in host communities around the country, which has stretched the absorptive capacities of many host communities and resulted in tensions between refugees and host community members.

As the refugee crisis in Turkey becomes more protracted, delivering support to national and local systems, with a strong focus on supporting women, children and youth, is more vital than ever to reinforce the country's resilience.

UNFPA Turkey continues to provide essential sexual and reproductive health and gender-based violence services to Syrian communities in need, addressing assistance gaps and organizing far-reaching programs that serve to protect vulnerable members of the community.

COORDINATION UPDATES

UNFPA continues to lead the GBV Area of Responsibility, ensuring that minimum standards are in place to prevent and respond to gender-based violence in emergencies.

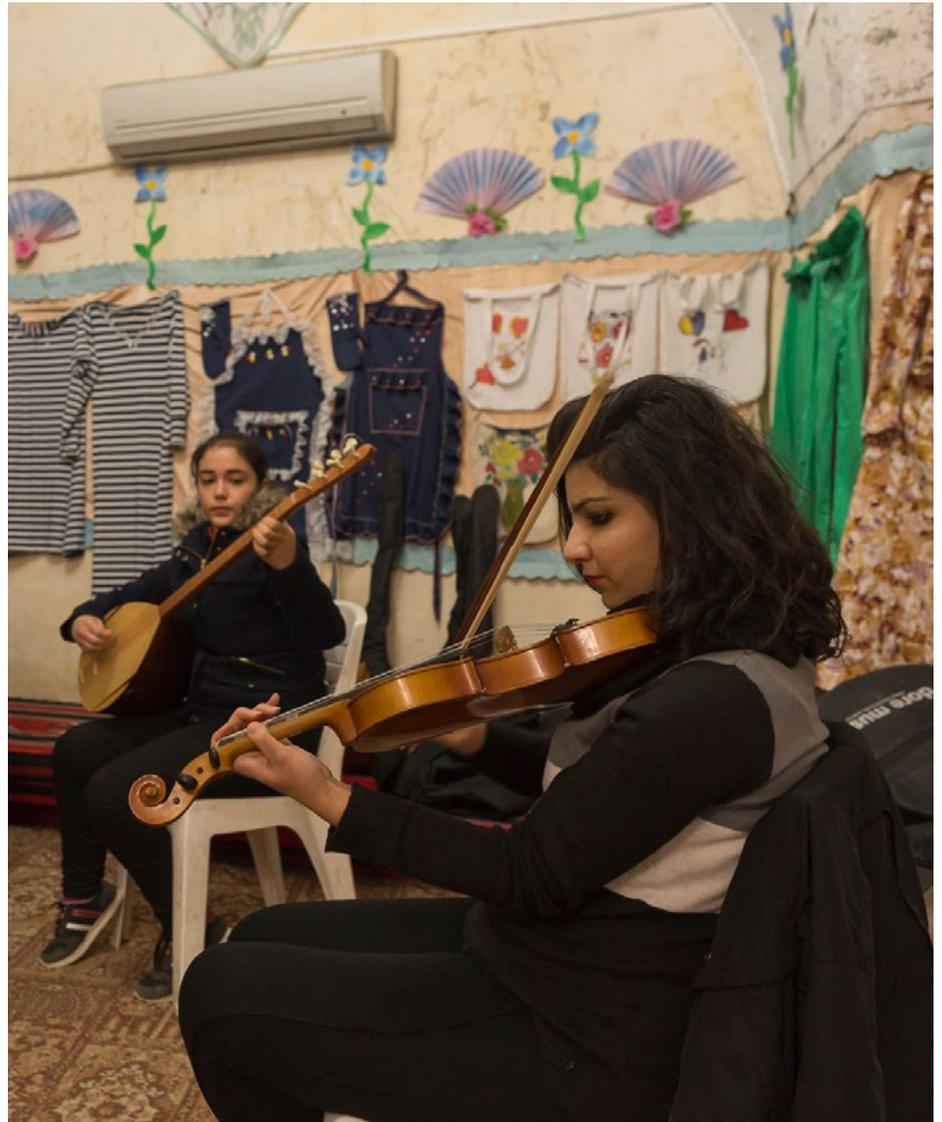

To ensure good coordination when emergencies occur, the Inter-Agency Standing Committee (IASC) has introduced the Cluster Approach. Clusters are groups of humanitarian organizations, both UN and non-UN, in each of the main sectors of humanitarian action such as water, health and logistics. In contexts where the IASC Cluster Approach has been activated, UNFPA is mandated to co-lead the GBV Area of Responsibility (GBV AoR), a body part of the Global Protection Cluster, which is led by UNHCR.

As lead, UNFPA is accountable for working closely with national authorities, partners and communities, to ensure that minimum standards are in place to prevent and respond to gender-based violence in emergencies. In non-clustered and refugee contexts, UNFPA is co-leading with UNHCR.

UNFPA leads the GBV coordination mechanisms. Through its Damascus-based operation, UNFPA is the main lead, while in its Turkey Cross Border operation UNFPA co-leads with Global Communities. In its refugee response in Turkey and Iraq, UNFPA co-leads with the Government of Turkey and International Medical Corps (IMC) respectively. In Jordan and Lebanon, UNFPA co-leads the refugee GBV response with UNHCR.

In January, the South-East Turkey (SET) SGBV SWG meeting was co-chaired by UNFPA on Wednesday, January 8 2020 in Gaziantep. The meeting focused on the 2020 workplan based on the priorities discussed during the PWG Planning Workshop on 15 December. Meanwhile, UNFPA co-chaired the Inter-Agency KRG Thematic Coordination Platform Meeting in Istanbul, which took place with the participation of platform member organisations. Areas of focus included updates on Istanbul relocation cases, feedback by participants on the latest training on KRG in Istanbul, and needs analysis/discussion on 2020 activities and timeline. Lastly, UNFPA conducted a field trip to observe the impact of an earthquake in Elazig and conduct a rapid need assessment through bilateral meetings with Ministry of Family, Labor and Social Services (MoFLSS), Ministry of Health (MoH), Provincial Directorate of MoFLSS and Provincial Directorate of MoH.

In Egypt, UNFPA will start to co-chair the Sexual and Gender Based Violence Sub Working Group (SGBV SWG), jointly with UNHCR. Through this platform, UNFPA will strengthen the coordination among humanitarian partners responding to sexual and gender based violence on operational, strategic, advocacy and communication aspects.
